- Developing and implementing innovative educational practices aimed at raising awareness among students and professionals (coaches, teachers, managers, etc.) about the issue of racism in sports.

The survey is a fundamental tool for understanding the underlying dynamics and enabling us to design effective and concrete solutions to meet these objectives.

Second TPM In Murcia

The consortium gathered for the second Transnational Project Meeting (TPM) in Murcia on September 12th at UCAM University to advance the project's activities and finalize Work Package 2 (WP2). This phase focuses on analyze policies and programs in the participating countries (Cyprus, Greece, Italy, and Spain) and develop a survey in order to assess the knowledge levels and educational needs of students and university teachers.

Thanks to these preliminary activities, the consortium will be able to develop educational materials, guidelines, and a specific course designed to positively impact students and teachers. These resources aim to promote a more inclusive sports environment and break down racial barriers, fostering awareness, respect, and unity.

First Multiplier Event in Murcia

On September 13th, 2024, the first Multiplier Event of the Briswa 2.0 Project was held at UCAM University in Murcia.

The event brought together over 30 Erasmus students who actively participated in discussions about the project's objectives and the importance of combating racism in sports. Following the event, the students collaborated to create an impactful video aimed at raising awareness about racism in sports, demonstrating their engagement with and support for the initiative.

This effort highlights the commitment of young people to fostering inclusivity and promoting a sports culture free from discrimination. The video will serve as a valuable tool to further spread awareness and inspire others to take action in creating a more inclusive environment in sports.

UCAM remains steadfast in its dedication to advancing this cause and ensuring that the message of equality and respect reaches a broader audience.
